

eCollege Mobile Access

To access eCollege mobile, simply point your mobile device browser to the following link:

<http://m.ecollege.com/Login.HTML?cs=cu>

Log in using the same username and password that you use to access the eCollege application on the web.

Once logged in you can:

- See recent announcements.
- Check your grades.
- See recent course activity, such as dropbox submissions and discussion postings.
- Read and respond to discussions.

Because the eCollege mobile application talks to the same course shell that you normally use, any information you view, and any discussion postings you contribute are part of the course.

Additional support for the eCollege Mobile application are available on the CU Online Faculty Support site.

FAQs

Can I turn off access to mobile for my course?

No. The eCollege mobile access is turned on globally for all CU Online eCollege courses.

What mobile devices does the eCollege mobile application support?

Because the eCollege mobile application is simply a web page, any phone or portable device with a web browser should be able to access the software, including: iPhone, iPad, Google Android, Windows 7 phone, Palm, Blackberry and more!

Is there an easy way to put a bookmark to this application site on my phone?

Yes. Check the CU Online Faculty Support site (listed above). We have posted a job aid describing how to add a link for various mobile devices.

Can students take tests or view lessons via the mobile application?

At this point, the eCollege mobile application only supports viewing of grades, announcements, notifications of activity in the course and interaction with discussion.

How will students find out about this?

This term, CU Online is announcing the functionality to faculty, but is not otherwise advertising the availability of this application. So, we expect that faculty who are interested in the technology will share the link with their students. Also, as word gets out, students will certainly learn about the availability of the application from other students.

Starting summer of 2011, we will announce the availability of eCollege mobile to all faculty and students.

For now, it is important that our eCollege faculty are aware of the availability of this software.

What if students need help with the application?

The eCollege mobile application is fairly straightforward. But if students do need help, they can contact the CU Online help desk. Likewise, please feel free to share the links to the training videos listed on the CU Online Faculty support page.

What about mobile access for Blackboard?

CU Online expects to launch some mobile support for Blackboard courses this summer.

If you have additional questions, please contact the CU Online helpdesk (M-F, 7-7) at 303-315-3700 or the eCollege helpdesk (24x7) at 877-740-2214,
