

2011 Dean's Awards

Teaching Excellence Awards – Tenured and Tenure-track Faculty

Charles M. Musiba, PhD, Department of Anthropology

Student Kersten Bergstrom says: “Laetoli and Oduvai Gorger seem like unbelievable places to work and study anthropology, ....[but] the most unique aspect of the Tanzania Field School is Dr. Musiba...His students have the opportunity to be completely immersed within a new culture. It is astounding to have the opportunity to work with such experienced researchers and workers within the field and to excavate in Laetoli.”

Service Excellence Awards

David P. Tracer, PhD, Departments of Anthropology and Health and Behavioral Sciences

Steve Koester says: “When the idea of nominating David was presented at our recent faculty meeting there was immediate consensus. We have all benefited from David’s extraordinary commitment to service and we are well aware of the difference it has made to our students, the college, the university and the community. It is important to mention that David has maintained this degree of service while excelling as a scholar and instructor.”
