Communicating Science!

presented by Marcus Giron of NREL

Ever notice someone’s eyes gloss over when you start talking about your research?

Need a few tips and some advice on talking about your research in a concise, convincing, interesting way to a colleague, investor or even family member?

The National Renewable Energy Laboratory’s Marcus Giron will deliver a seminar that will help turn a “huh?” into “wow!”.

Join him in this interactive, engaging seminar about science communication and delivering your message to the appropriate audience.
