I know Cuba-Blake you have been back to the land of your birth in SE Asia. However, having been inspired by a newspaper article and the perfect opportunity to share a magical adventure, I write this letter to you.

It is people like you that inspire me. For you there is no path that is not mine. For you there is no mountain that is too high. For you there is no path that is too sharp, too long, too distant, too narrow. You must break through and find your own way. You must break through the outer limit of human possibility, and break through the shadow of your own shadow.

I am so proud of you. You are the new generation, the new people who can do it and you will do it.

This reminds me of extra work and you should do it and fruit.
