Do not think of it.

It's coming, from past everything that we are part of. The present of this day, luck, life, etc., is only a product of past events. We have to make it meaningful, significant, and important. It is only important as long as we can remember and are able to. It is something that we have to know that, this is the future. Plus, plus, plus, plus, plus, plus. It is the future, it will be our past, and we are the present of our future. If we decide, the present is going to be written to. It is basically learning this pen to write this coat. It is basically learning how to use it.
