The School of Education & Human Development (SEHD) at the University of Colorado Denver announces a position for a senior faculty member in one of our existing graduate program areas, 50% of whose role will be to lead the doctoral programs of the School beginning in fall 2016 or upon prior availability. The School is seeking a Full Professor whose skills, experiences, and commitments will contribute to excellence in his/her program area and ensure excellence in all doctoral programs. The faculty member filling this position will become a vital member of the school’s standing committee of Program Leaders who meet regularly to coordinate and build academic programs. About 60 full-time faculty offer programs and endorsement areas leading to 13 degrees, including an undergraduate degree with four program paths, multiple master's degrees, and three doctoral programs, a PsyD, an EdD and a PhD. On campus, the SEHD enrolls about 300 undergraduate students and over 1900 graduate students, including 163 doctoral students. The SEHD has extensive continuing and professional education outreach programs as well as approximately $30 million in multi-year external funding.

The University of Colorado Denver is the premier urban research university in Colorado and is committed to becoming one of the top ten urban institutions in the country. The SEHD strives to be a leading school of education, providing national expertise on educational issues and socially just solutions for urban and diverse communities. Located in the heart of downtown Denver, whose population is increasingly diverse (32% Latino, 10% African American), the SEHD, accredited by NCATE, has taken a leadership role in preparing scholar-professionals to work in diverse schools, agencies and related settings in collaboration with partners in diverse settings.

The SEHD revised its approach to doctoral education in 2009, opening a new EdD aligned with practitioner oriented Carnegie Project on the Education Doctorate, as well as a revised PhD explicitly focused on preparing students to work in academic institutions. In 2014, the SEHD added a PsyD in School Psychology. Continuous improvement of our doctoral programs continued in 2015 with the establishment of our Center for Practice-Engaged Education Research (C-PEER). C-PEER is a network of researchers, educators, and community members who support schools and communities in improving their work on behalf of learners. C-PEER's goal is to partner on locally relevant research and disseminate the findings nationally. Doctoral students play a major role in C-PEER's activities.

The SEHD is one of 11 schools/colleges that make up the University of Colorado Denver. The others are the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, the College of Architecture and Planning, the College of Arts and Media, the Business School, the School of Engineering, the School of Public Affairs, the School of Medicine, the School of Pharmacy, the School of Nursing, and the School of Dentistry. These schools are housed on two campuses—one in downtown Denver and one on the Anschutz Medical Campus in Aurora.
The SEHD’s doctoral programs include:

Doctor of Philosophy, PhD, Education and Human Development
The PhD in education and human development links intensive research training with a concentration area in order to prepare candidates to assume positions in institutions of higher education or research-based organizations. Current concentration areas include: Administrative Leadership and Policy; Early Childhood Education; Math Education; Research, Assessment, and Evaluation; Science Education; and Urban Ecologies.

The Education Doctorate, EdD, Leadership for Educational Equity
The EdD is an applied degree for educational and community leaders seeking advanced knowledge and skills. EdD students select from current concentration areas in Executive Leadership; Early Childhood Special Education; Early Childhood Education; Mathematics Education; Professional Learning and Technology; Science Education; and Urban Ecologies. The School’s Center for Practice-Engaged Education Research supports seamless access to districts, schools and communities as well as identified problems of practice as authentic dissertation topics of study. CU Denver is a member of the Carnegie Project on the Education Doctorate, CPED.

The Doctor of Psychology, PsyD, School Psychology.
The PsyD leads to licensure as a school psychologist by the Colorado Department of Education and prepares graduates to apply for licensure by the Colorado State Board of Psychologist Examiners. Consistent with a practitioner-scholar model, the PsyD Program in School Psychology prepares professional school psychologists through rigorous academic study integrated with intensive supervised clinical practice. The Bilingual School Psychologist Concentration Option provides students who are proficient in English and an additional language with the knowledge and skills to effectively assess students in their native language.

Major Responsibilities

- Intellectual leadership and a strong commitment to doctoral education
  - Collaborate with other faculty to build and improve SEHD doctoral education
  - Facilitate curriculum alignment and differentiation between the PhD and EdD programs as well as the PsyD
  - Provide program oversight, including continuous improvement processes and accreditation, enrollment management, and curriculum, assessment, and admission/retention issues
  - Serve as first-line internal and external communicator for doctoral programs including membership on the university’s Graduate Council
  - Collaborate with C-PEER
  - Participate in CPED
  - Serve as liaison to COMIRB, CU Denver’s human subjects institutional review board
- Participate on the SEHD’s standing committee of program leaders where strategic planning and program development occurs
- Participate in teaching within home disciplinary program and engage in program service
- Conduct a program of research that includes work within home discipline

Minimum Qualifications
- Earned doctorate in a field relevant to the School’s vision and mission
- A record that meets the requirements for tenure and the rank of full professor at CU Denver
- Demonstrated success in mentoring doctoral students
- Demonstrated success in leadership within the school/college and university, as well as with local, regional, and national communities and professional organizations
- Demonstrated success with curriculum oversight, development and evaluation
- Successful university teaching and collaboration in teaching and/or curriculum efforts

Required Competencies, Knowledge, Skills and Abilities
- Record of success in doctoral education
- Excellent interpersonal and problem-solving skills

Desired Qualifications
- Experience in a CPED doctoral program
- Demonstrated success in funding doctoral students
- Experience with multiple doctoral degree program types (PhD, EdD, PsyD)

Employment Conditions

Rank: Full Professor
This is a full-time academic year position. Salary is commensurate with qualifications. The University of Colorado offers a full benefits package. Information on University benefits programs, including eligibility, is located at https://www.cu.edu/employee-services/faculty-benefits

Application Procedures:
Please prepare the following materials for submission. All applications must be submitted through the University's online job application site: http://www.jobsatcu.com.

1. A letter of application including the candidate’s interests, experiences and qualifications related to the position responsibilities
2. A current curriculum vitae
3. Transcripts of graduate work and evidence of terminal degree. Unofficial transcripts may be sent for application. Official transcripts will be requested at point of hire.
4. This position requires three confidential letters of recommendation, which will be requested at a later stage in the search process. You will need to enter email addresses for your recommendation providers at this time.

5. Evidence of excellent teaching (e.g. peer reviews of teaching, student evaluations, syllabi, curriculum development, mentoring awards).

6. Examples of research or creative works (a minimum of three recent publications).

If an offer with tenure is made, the following materials will be requested.
   a. A copy of criteria used to make decisions about tenure and promotion at the candidate’s current institution
   b. A copy of the official letter that granted tenure and/or promotion with a copy of criteria used to make those decisions

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2015 and will continue until the position is filled.

All materials received become the property of the University of Colorado Denver.

Address inquiries regarding the faculty position to the search committee chair: Dr. Dorothy Garrison-Wade at Dorothy.garrison-wade@ucdenver.edu

Address inquiries about the application process or submission of application materials to Jessica Coon at SEHDHR@ucdenver.edu.

The University of Colorado Denver is dedicated to ensuring a safe and secure environment for our faculty, staff, students and visitors. To achieve that goal, we conduct background investigations for all prospective employees. The University of Colorado is committed to diversity and equality in education and employment.

The University of Colorado Denver is committed to recruiting and supporting a diverse student body, faculty and administrative staff. The university strives to promote a culture of inclusiveness, respect, communication and understanding. We encourage applications from women, ethnic minorities, persons with disabilities and all veterans. The University of Colorado is committed to diversity and equality in education and employment.