The 12th Rocky Mountain Workshop on How to Practice Evidence Based Health Care will be held August 1-5, 2010 at the Vail Cascade Club in Vail, CO. The workshop is funded in part by a grant from AHRQ and is presented by the Colorado School of Public Health and the University of Colorado Denver Office of Continuing Medical Education.

Andy Oxman of the Cochrane Collaboration and Senior Research at the Norwegian Knowledge Centre for Health Services in Oslo, Norway, and Judith Baxter, Assistant Professor in the Colorado School of Public Health, are the course directors. Internationally recognized experts in the field of EBM will be teamed with outstanding local tutors, and librarians from Health Sciences Library at the University of Colorado Denver.

National/International Tutors:
Lisa Bero, PhD
Martha Gerrity, MD, PhD
Andy Oxman, MD, MSc
Scott Richardson, MD
Peter Tugwell, MD, MSc, FRCPC

The EBHC workshop is targeted to healthcare practitioners and others (such as medical librarians, policy makers, journalists and consumer advocates) who translate research evidence into practice. This 5-day, hands-on workshop is designed to challenge participants to integrate their skills for decision-making with patients, communication and policy making. Participants focus on their specific interest areas utilizing a small-group, problem-solving format. We encourage participants to bring scenarios they have encountered in their own practice settings, to use as a basis for structuring their own agendas and getting the most from the workshop.

Up to 31 hours of Category 1 Continuing Medical Education credits will be offered – Category 2 credits may be available for the individual study time. Additional CE programs are being pursued. Number of credits may vary with continuing education program.

University of Colorado faculty and affiliates are eligible for a discounted tuition rate. Additional information is available on our website at http://ebhc.ucdenver.edu, or by calling Jen Stachelski at 303-724-7550 or e-mailing her at jennifer.mcintyre@ucdenver.edu.
