How to Survive in an EHR Universe: Improving Relationships With Your Patients in the Era of the Electronic Health Record

Presenter:
Zuzanna Czernik, MD

As an Assistant Professor at the University of Colorado School of Medicine, Dr. Zuzanna Czernik is core clinical faculty for the Internal Medicine Residency Training Program. In her role with the residency Dr. Czernik created and is the director of the Clinical Coaching Program.

A Hospitalist with University of Colorado Hospital, Dr. Czernik is the assistant director of the Acute Care for the Elderly service. She participates in the ongoing quality and safety efforts on the ACE unit and is a member of the Geriatric Leadership Team.

Zuzanna’s article, Time at the Bedside (Computing), published in JAMA, Vol. 315, No.22 (June 14, 2016), offers care providers a historic context in which to consider, and embrace, the EHR.
