Summer Medical Student Scholarly Opportunities

Department/Center/Program: Medicine

Summer Program Name:

Brief Description of the summer program: The Young Hospitalist Academy (YHA) is an intensive training program for medical students at any level who seek to lead innovative transformation of American healthcare. Though advances in science, technology, and models of collaboration promise continued discovery and improvement in human health, the care systems designed to bring benefits to patients do not live up to their potential. Medical school typically does not provide the knowledge or skills necessary to drive reinvention of healthcare systems.

Describe the application process? Health Innovations Scholars Program candidates will be selected based on interest in systems improvement and innovation, potential to become a physician leader, and evidence of strong interpersonal skills. Applications are due. Applicants will be notified of selection 30-days after the due date. Hospitalist Sub-Internship candidates will be selected based on interest in pursing a career in internal or hospital medicine, as well as potential to be a leader of systems improvement.
