Autism Spectrum Disorder
Thurs., April 19, 2018 – 10:00 – 11:30 AM

We invite you to join us for an Autism Awareness Month educational event to learn about the most recent CDC prevalence data for Autism Spectrum Disorders, a study of patient navigation for low income families with young children, and findings from the Colorado Parent Mentoring Program. This webinar is for care coordinators, health department personnel, school personnel, and other professionals working with children. Anyone is welcome to attend this free webinar at the live site or online.

Following this event, the audience will better:
• Understand the most recent CDC data regarding the prevalence of Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD)
• Identify barriers low-income families may experience in obtaining early intervention evaluation and services
• Explain the assistance patient navigators can provide to low income families of children with ASD
• Understand the need for emotional supports and broader family-wide supports for families of children with ASD

Agenda:
10:00-10:05 – Welcome and Introductions
10:05-10:30 – Autism and Developmental Disability Monitoring Network (ADDM) Update
10:30-11:00 – Screening and Linkage to Services for Autism (SaLSA): Study of Patient Navigation for Low Income Families with Young Children
11:00-11:20 – Family support is the missing ingredient to success: Findings from the Colorado Parent Mentoring Program
11:20-11:30 – Wrap-up and Q&A

Speakers:
• Tiffany White, PhD, MSPH, Developmental Disabilities Epidemiologist, Autism Project Coordinator, CDPHE
• Carolyn DiGiuseppi, MD, MPH, PhD, Professor of Epidemiology and Associate Dean for Faculty, CSPH
• Eric Moody, PhD, Assistant Professor, University of Colorado School of Medicine, JFK Partners
