Empowering Breastfeeding Support
Wed., Aug 8, 2018 – 10:00-11:30 AM

With over 90% of Colorado mothers choosing to start breastfeeding, the need for education and support throughout our communities is higher than ever. From the NICU to the medical office to the child care professional, increased breastfeeding education can lead to better support and healthier outcomes for our babies and families. This presentation will provide information on breastfeeding practices, supportive services, policies and advocacy efforts that can be incorporated into your community.

Healthcare providers, child care professionals, employers and families will better understand and be able to advocate for breastfeeding supportive practices in the NICU and hospital settings and how to create breastfeeding-friendly medical offices, workplaces and child care programs.

Following this event, the audience will better understand:

- The benefits of and barriers to breastfeeding.
- The importance of breastfeeding-friendly practices in the maternity care setting and medical office.
- How the use of human milk fortifier in the NICU and WIC supports the most vulnerable children.
- How to use available toolkits and resources to remove barriers and increase breastfeeding duration and support in the workplace and child care.

Speaker: Stacy Miller, PhD, RD, CLC, Breastfeeding Specialist, Early Childhood Obesity Prevention Unit, Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment
