Ecuador

This women's global health nursing experience will promote experiential and service learning in the clinical setting. This course will be directly applied to the student's program of study and offer additional global health learning objectives.

Students will be challenged to critically think about global development, consider diverse world views and alternative health systems, and better learn how to communicate across cultural barriers. The student experience will include direct patient care in a variety of clinical settings and indirect patient care from comprehensive debriefing with our faculty. Additional learning will occur during cultural and historical excursions and by guest lectures from local scholars.

All direct patient care will occur at Riobamba Hospital, a busy regional teaching hospital. Because of the high demand for services, this hospital welcomes international students. This hospital has 150 beds and is consistently at 95% of capacity. Adjacent to the hospital is a multidisciplinary, multispecialty primary care facility that includes gynecology and obstetrics. The hospital is part of a community network so it extends its reach to the larger geographic area.

What is a CU Denver Global Study program?
A CU Denver course that takes place in another part of the world. CU Denver faculty lead and teach a wide range of Global Study programs worldwide. Students have the extraordinary opportunity to engage with the location and their professor. These programs are designed with the CU Denver student body in mind: costs are reasonable and they are short-term to allow busy students to fit studying abroad into their schedule.

Financial Aid
CU Denver | CU Anschutz students may be able to use their existing financial aid for Global Study programs. Note that Summer programs are considered part of the Summer term for financial aid. For more information and to discuss your personal aid package, contact the Financial Aid and Scholarships Office: financial.aid@ucdenver.edu or 303.724.8039. Please add “Study Abroad” to the subject heading when sending emails to the above email addresses, as this will ensure that your message is routed to a study abroad financial aid advisor.

Scholarships
Students should search for any scholarships with requirements that fit within this program’s parameters.
