New Anschutz Medical Campus App Years of hard work pay off for P-4 Andrew Webb with the birth of the Anschutz Medical Campus mobile app he helped develop. In addition to Andrew, IT, Atel, the library, Student Senate and many others were responsible for making this project a reality. The app, primarily geared to students, is free and includes a GPS finder, top campus contacts, photo album, directory links, Health Sciences Library information and campus safety lines. It also offers access to the CU Portal, which has tuition, financial aid, class schedule and other information. Read more about Andrew’s involvement. The app can be downloaded for use with Droids, iPhones, and iPads, just go to or go to www.ucdenver.edu/mobile or the iTunes store and search under “CU-Anschutz.”

In the News From providing expert opinions on such topics as the pros and cons of placing stricter controls on drugs like Vicodin to the FDA’s lowering the dose of Zolpidem for women and the potential for folic acid taken during the early stages of conception to lower the risk of autistic disorders in children, CU SSPPS faculty members (Drs. Laura Borgelt, Gina Moore and Peter Rice) have been in demand. Dr. Rice’s interview by local Fox 31/Channel 2 station was also picked up in Virginia! CDPHE to host Prescription Drug Misuse Round Table Meetings at CU SSPPS On March 8, the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment, in partnership with the Governor’s office, the Colorado Department of Human Services and many other stakeholders, will host a discussion on key prescription misuse issues. The meetings, by invitation and closed to the public, will help develop action steps, which are a precursor to the development of the Governor’s statewide strategic plan on the subject. The strategic plan is part of Colorado’s participation in the National Governor’s Association Prescription Drug Abuse Reduction Policy Academy.
