WHAT TO EXPECT
A few weeks after sending the application to USCIS you should receive an I-797 receipt notice with your case number. Please do not lose this form. The case number will assist you in tracking your application process online. Online case status can be found at www.uscis.gov.

If you do not receive a receipt notice from USCIS, contact your bank to obtain a copy of the cancelled check you sent to USCIS. The case number will be stamped on the back of the check. With this case number you can contact customer service at 1-800-375-5283 and request a duplicate receipt.

If you move while your application is pending, you must change your address with USCIS immediately. You can do this by calling the customer service line at the number above. If you know that you will be moving while the application is pending, we recommend that you use an address care of a friend or relative who will not be moving.

When you receive any notice from USCIS please let ISSS know. We can assist if USCIS needs more information about your case and would need to know of the delay in the process. ISSS will also need to see the DS-2019 and the approval notice with your new I-94 card on the bottom, once your application has been approved. ISSS is required to update your SEVIS record after your application is approved, so it’s important to let us know the case status as soon as possible to avoid any issues with your new status.

TWO YEAR HOME RESIDENCE REQUIREMENT
Some J-1 Exchange Visitors are subject to a requirement that they return to their home country for two years before being eligible for H-1B, L-1, or permanent resident status: those whose skills are wanted by their home country; whose program is funded directly by their home government or by the U.S. government. The J-1 applicant should be aware of this requirement and whether or not the requirement applies before filing the application.

The first step in applying to change to J-1 status is to obtain a DS-2019 Certificate of Eligibility for Exchange Visitor (J-1) Status form. The DS-2019 is issued by ISSS once the University of Colorado Denver host academic department has submitted all required documents. Once ISSS has issued Form DS-2019, the prospective J-1 scholar should sign the bottom of the form.

The scholar should then go on line and pay the SEVIS fee with a credit or debit card: https://www.fmjfee.com/i901fee/. A copy of the receipt will be required with the application.

Caveat: Please note that ISSS international services coordinator are assisting you with your application in an advisory role only. We cannot provide you with legal advise and do not guarantee that your application will be approved by the US Department of Homeland Security. You are welcome to use the services of an immigration attorney.

Note that applying for a change of status does not provide you with a new “visa.” Travel abroad will require obtaining a new visa before you can return to the U.S. in J-1 status.
