A. Introduction

This policy provides guidance and standards for faculty and staff concerning University of Colorado Denver | Anschutz Medical Campus (the “university”) -related or sponsored domestic travel and recognizes two types of campus-related domestic travel:

1. Domestic off-campus courses and/or educational experiences not requiring overnight accommodation

   In this category are courses entailing off-campus travel (multiple trips, excursions, etc.) for the purpose of study, data gathering, field experiments, and other forms of research. They will take places within the greater Denver area, with no overnight accommodation required.

2. Domestic off-campus courses and/or educational experiences requiring overnight accommodation

   These extended courses may take place in any of the 50 United States or its territories and require overnight accommodation. Such travel requires the development of a Risk and Emergency Response Plan (attached) which must be approved and signed by the department chair, or designee.
B. Table of Contents

A. Introduction
B. Table of Contents
C. Policy Statement and Exclusions
D. Policy Guidelines

Appendix A: Regulatory Compliance References
Appendix B: Risk and Emergency Response Plan Template

C. Policy Statement and Exclusions

1. Policy Statement

This policy provides guidance and standards for faculty and staff concerning university-related or sponsored domestic travel for:

- Faculty or staff accompanied by students;
- Faculty or staff who have direct oversight of students participating in domestic travel learning activities, but do not accompany students during travel; and,
- Non-university travelers (such as volunteers, spouses and family members, and independent contractors) accompanying university travelers.

This policy provides guidance to mitigate and manage risk for faculty, staff, and students traveling domestically under the auspices of the university. Such travel includes all domestic travel related to the faculty or staff member’s professional responsibilities at the university, including (but not limited to) research, teaching, and/or training.

Grant-funded domestic travel, where the grant is processed through the university or the CU Foundation, is subject to this policy, as well as to any regulations set by the granting agency.

2. Policy Exclusions

a. International travel study courses, internships, clinical rotations, practicums, and other international learning experiences are not covered under this policy, and should be coordinated with the CU Denver Office of International Affairs, in adherence with the following policies:

- International Travel Policy for Faculty and Staff

- International Travel Policy for Students
b. Domestic internships, clinical rotations, practicum for academic departments, schools, and colleges are not covered by this policy, but must comply with the sponsoring department, school, or college requirements.

c. Student-initiated, student-led, and/or instances where travel arrangements are procured by the student for independent learning experiences, conference attendance, and/or educational opportunities that students engage in outside of direct university oversight. If university funds are used for these excursions, it is advised that the department, school, or college ensure that a General Notice to Participants of Risk/Waiver of Responsibility be completed by the travel sponsor and signed by the student prior to travel. Student-led trips must follow all applicable guidelines and procedures as determined by the Office of Student Affairs.

d. Field trips within the Denver metro area with no overnight stay, if limited to no more than three during a semester course, are not required to prepare a Risk and Emergency Response Plan, but these plans are recommended. At a minimum, faculty developing a course with a field trip are encouraged to provide the department with a participant list and site contact (including phone number) in case of emergency (if such information is not already required in the department, school, or college course approval process).

e. Domestic travel that has no connection to the university, such as personal vacation.

f. Domestic travel by faculty and staff when not accompanied by students.

D. Policy Guidelines for Faculty, Staff, and Non-University Personnel

1. Guidelines for Faculty and Staff

All university departments, schools, and colleges with faculty and/or staff engaged in domestic off-campus courses and/or educational experiences involving students shall implement a course approval process for all credit-bearing courses and programs resulting in a certificate and/or other recognition of completion. This approval process should, at a minimum, address the following items:

- Demonstrate the academic nature and educational value of the experience and its importance to the student's degree program and that student travel is "essential";

- Ensure any course and/or educational experience posting requirements into the university course inventory are followed.
- Courses and/or educational experiences must be vetted and approved following department, school, or college and university established procedures;

- Identify locations that will be visited during the course and/or educational experience prior to requesting department, school, or college approval;

- Incorporate information from University Risk Management off-campus guidelines, checklists, and other resources at http://www.cu.edu/risk/off-campus-activities; and,

- Identify risk of travel including means of student transportation to site. Complete and acquire appropriate waivers if university-sponsored transportation is used or if the risk of the activity necessitates the use of a waiver. Waivers can be found here: https://www.cu.edu/risk/general-waivers-and-consent.

All university faculty or staff members who accompany students or provide direct oversight of students participating in domestic off-campus courses and/or educational experiences shall follow their appropriate department, school, or college approval processes.

All university travelers must follow appropriate university administrative policies and legal/regulatory and research compliance standards. All university travelers are expected to comply with local, state, and federal regulations while traveling, working, and transacting business. Legal codes may differ from state to state and it is the responsibility of the traveler to comply with these regulations. Appendix A provides suggested regulatory compliance references.

Faculty and staff should take care not to promote learning and educational experiential opportunities involving domestic travel that have not been vetted by the university and that are not affiliated with the university. If faculty or staff list these providers and opportunities on the university website or by other means, they must include the following disclaimer:

- “The (fill in program name here) is operated by an organization independent from and not affiliated with or sponsored by the University of Colorado Denver / Anschutz Medical Campus. Students who choose to participate in this program do so with the understanding that the university does not oversee, operate, or manage this program and will not be liable to the students, family, heirs, or assigns under any circumstances for anything which may arise during the course of this program or during independent travel that may occur after the program has ended.”

a. Requirements for Faculty and Staff: Domestic off-campus courses and/or educational experiences involving students and requiring overnight accommodations
Any university faculty or staff who will be accompanied by a university student(s) during domestic off-campus travel requiring overnight accommodations must also:

- Develop a Risk and Emergency Response Plan that addresses general types of risks and response protocols for the intended trip. This plan must be approved and signed by the department chair (or designee) prior to commencement of the off-site activity. A sample Risk and Emergency Response Plan is located in Appendix B.

- Provide an orientation to all leaders and students, prior to travel, in order to review the Risk and Emergency Response Plan and ensure that all necessary waiver forms are completed.

2. Guidelines for Non-University Personnel

Non-university personnel, traveling under the auspice of the university and accompanying university travelers must:

- Be approved by department leadership;

- Comply with university domestic travel policies for the duration of their travel;

- Comply with university administrative policies, including background check requirements;

- Comply with the laws of each state while traveling, working, and transacting business; and,

Family, friends, unaffiliated colleagues, etc. must complete and sign the Travel Agreement, Notice of Risk and Waiver of Responsibility (http://www.cu.edu/risk/general-waivers-and-consent).

Volunteers and independent contractors traveling with University faculty and staff in order to participate in University directed activities should be designated an Authorized Volunteer by completing and signing the Authorized Volunteer Agreement, Notice of Risk and Waiver of Responsibility (https://www.cu.edu/risk/volunteer-trainee-and-minor-participants).

The department authorizing these individuals must ensure that the completed waiver is sent to their department’s record keeper for retention, per the University Records Retention Policy (https://www.cu.edu/ope/aps-2006-retention-university-records).

The university is not responsible for providing support or services to unaffiliated travelers. There may be prohibitions on unaffiliated travelers, in certain instances.
APPENDIX A
REGULATORY COMPLIANCE REFERENCES

All university travelers must follow appropriate university administrative policies and legal/regulatory and research compliance standards. All university travelers are expected to comply with local, state, and federal regulations while traveling, working, and transacting business. Legal codes may differ from state to state and it is the responsibility of the traveler to comply with the following applicable regulations, which include (but are not limited to):

- Obtain travel approval, per the University of Colorado System official administrative travel authorization statement (https://www.cu.edu/ope/aps-4024-travel-authorization).

- Comply with the university Procurement Procedural Statement (http://www.cu.edu/psc/travel) and follow all procurement guidelines (http://www.cu.edu/psc/policies/procurement-rules) while traveling.

- Comply with all regulations, restrictions, and sanctions imposed by United States authorities. More information, contact the University of Colorado Denver | Anschutz Medical Campus Office of Regulatory Compliance at 303-724-0982.

- Obtain approval from the Colorado Multiple Institutional Review Board (COMIRB) if the course requires human subject research that will be conducted by faculty, staff, or students of the University of Colorado Denver | Anschutz Medical Campus (or its affiliates). COMIRB may be contacted at 303-724-1055.

- Comply with university (and United States, when applicable) regulations for animal care and use. Transport of animals, animal parts, animal blood, and fluids is subject to restrictions according to United States law. Contact the University of Colorado Denver | Anschutz Medical Campus Office of Laboratory Animal Resources at 303-724-2322 for additional information.