The Office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs and Research is pleased to announce that we are again holding our annual Teaching with Technology Conference at UCB in Eaton Humanities on August 12 and 13, 2003.

If you are interested in teaching, learning and technology in any field of study at the university, you may want to explore the presentations at this conference. Detailed information about it can be found at: www.cu.edu/twt, and the program is available as a pdf document at: http://www.cu.edu/twt/program.htm

This is our 8th year of hosting this conference and professors, administrators and students from all around Colorado are attending. We have over 70 diverse sessions planned for presentation, with topics including the fields of medicine, education, business, engineering, physical and biological sciences, arts, technology, media, social sciences, journalism, P-12 and libraries, among others. Innovative uses of media and technology will be presented and targeted for all ranges of ability and interest in the area of technology.

Our keynoter, Doug Mann, Ohio University, is going to discuss his research from the cognitive sciences on new advances in learning. Information and background for his speech can also be found on the website listed above. Our TWT Award winners, Craig Passon, Judy Coe and Andrew Czaplewski are going to discuss how they have enhanced student learning through innovative uses of technology in health care, arts and media and business. Former VP David Groth and TWT "Founder", has agreed to serve as the Interlocutor for the panel.

We are close to 250 registrants from all over Colorado thus far, and look forward to a full two days of exciting presentations. Come join us if your schedule permits. Registration information is also available at the conference website.

Finally, we want to acknowledge the able leadership of Mollie McGill and her crack TWT team on this important CU endeavor. They include Carol Redbaugh, Ellie Childs, Adam Bauman, Aaron Betterton, Marcella Cruz, and Amie Guerrero from VPAAR; and, Manu Ghaffarifar and his team from UCB.
