Young Upwardly Mobile Professor (YUMPs)
Chair/Program Head Approval

YUMPs (Young Upwardly Mobile Professors) is a program that provides small grants to tenure-track faculty at the University of Colorado Denver (downtown) for activities that advance them toward tenure. Funded activities could include: attending professional conferences, hiring a research assistant, or buying books/software.

- Funding Limit: $500/year
- Eligibility: Tenure-track faculty
- Matching: applicants must secure and document confirmation of matching funds from their school/department
- Funds must be expended within the fiscal year in which they apply.

Applicant Name: ________________________________________________________________

Academic Title: ________________________________________________________________

Check here to confirm that the applicant is a tenure-track faculty member? ☐

School or College: ____________________________________________________________

Department/Program: _________________________________________________________

Activity/Conference Title: ______________________________________________________

What dates will the activity be taking place: ________________________________________

Specify amount of funding requested from YUMPs: __________

Specify the amount of matching funds: __________

Chair/Department Head Approval

______________________________________________________________________________

Clearly Print Chair/Department Head Name__________________________ Date_______________

____________________________________________________________
Signature