I. Introduction
This document sets forth the authority, functions, organization, rules and by-laws of the Department of Economics of the University of Colorado Denver (hereinafter referred to as the Department). This document is intended to be interpreted and applied in a manner consistent with the Rules of the University of Colorado, Board of Regents. In the event of a conflict, the Rules of the Regents take precedence.

II. Departmental Organization

a. Department Chairperson
The chairperson of the Department is responsible for the administration of the Department, including preparation of the budget and the teaching schedule, hiring and supervision of staff, submitting salary recommendations and overseeing the business operations of the Department. The Chairperson is expected to seek the advice of faculty and to provide for the conduct of Department affairs in an orderly fashion through meetings and the appointment of appropriate officers and committees. The Chairperson serves as the conduit of information between the Department faculty and the University administration and in this role is responsible for communicating recommendations and decisions by the Department to the administration.

b. Faculty
The faculty of the Department consist of tenured and tenure-track faculty, emeritus faculty and instructors and lecturers. Faculty participation is critical to the governance of the department and input will be sought from all appropriate faculty at the discretion of the Chairperson. However, only tenured and tenure-track faculty rostered in the Department, including the Department Chairperson, are eligible to vote on Departmental matters. (Hereinafter these members are referred to as the voting faculty). Any faculty member with more than a 50% appointment in Economics on our campus is considered to be ‘rostered’ in the Department. Other faculty will be consulted on Departmental matters related to their contributions and responsibilities within the department.

III. Departmental Administration and Decision-making
The Department has the following general principles of governance. Policy and program decisions are made by consultation between the Department faculty and the Chairperson. Whenever practical, this consultation will take place at a meeting of the faculty. (If a faculty meeting is impractical, matters of greatest importance should receive the widest consultation. Matters of less general importance should be resolved with the persons most affected.) Votes in faculty meetings and Departmental committees are by simple majority rule unless specified elsewhere in these by-laws. Voting procedures shall allow an opportunity for all opinions to be heard and considered. Powers and responsibilities related to Department governance that are not specified here rest with the Department Chairperson. The remainder of these by-laws describes procedures followed in specific areas of Departmental governance.

The election official will call for nominations for a period of at least one week, and an election date will be set. The voting faculty will meet to discuss the candidates and voting will take place by secret ballot. The votes will be counted by the election official. If no candidate receives a majority of the votes cast on the first ballot, another vote will be taken to choose from the two top vote-getters. The name of the Chair-elect will be reported to the Department and recommended to the Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.
