

Table of Contents

Getting Started

Getting started as a therapist
Goal setting questions
Five basic counseling skills
Common Mistakes
Multicultural Supervision Guidelines
Skills for therapists working with couples
Lend an Ear
Before the Initial Interview
The beginning family therapist; taking on the challenge
Students' perspective on graduate training
Quick Symptom Reference

Ethics

10 Ways practitioners can avoid frequent ethical pitfalls

Case Presentation/DSM

Case Presentation Summary
DSM IV Article
Transcription
Top Ten Ways to Find your Theoretical Orientation

Psychotropic Medication

Quick Reference to Psychotropic Medication

Depression

Treating the chronically disappointed
Anatomy of melancholy (client's perspective)

Assessment

How to determine whether a client might hurt herself
How to assess children for neglect, abuse and sexual abuse
The mental status examination
The MSE outline
Table. Detailed elements of the MSE

Cognitive Therapy

Introduction – Cognitive Therapy
Cognitive Conceptualization
The case formulation model
The problem list
The case formulation

Readiness for change

What motivates people to change?
Brief Intervention: More pieces of the puzzle
Ambivalence: The dilemma of change
Phase I: Building Motivation for change
Six changes of Change
Five basic principles of motivational interviewing
Sample questions to evoke self-motivational statements
Motivational Interviewing in Action

Self Care and Burn out

Stress and the helping professions
Self Care

Multicultural Counseling

Guidelines for psychotherapy with lesbian, gay, and bisexual clients
Assessment
Treatment

Grief and Loss

The Darkness has its own light

Play Therapy

The course of Play Therapy

Client Resources

Identifying and Expressing your feelings
Relaxation
Feeling Safe with feelings
The perfectionists script for self-defeat

