

Craig Finger graduated Summa Cum Laude and as the Outstanding Graduate for the College of Arts and Media with a B.S. in Music. He also graduated with honors from the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences with a B.A. in Anthropology. Throughout his time at UCD, Craig took advantage of many of the school's study abroad opportunities. Craig was part of a research team in Dar es Salaam and Laetoli, Tanzania where he worked on the Human Origins Exhibit at the National Museum and House of Culture as well as participated in a full paleoanthropological excavation in the famous Ngorongoro Conservation Area. Craig also studied in Mondana, Ecuador where he did research on sustainable agriculture and food security. In addition to his anthropological field schools, Craig also had the opportunity to play in jazz festivals in Cedar Basin, Iowa and Villard de Lans, France through the UCD Claim

Jumpers traditional jazz band, of which Craig is the leader. Craig plans to continue to learn and play music and looks forward to whatever surprises the next chapter in his life will bring him.
