Information regarding the Music Theory and Ear Training Reassessment Exams

All students enrolled in Music Theory I and Ear Training I courses are required to retake the Music Theory and Ear Training Assessment Exams. The purpose of this is to measure student progress in these classes, and the data we gather helps the department to improve the curriculum and instruction in Music Theory and Ear Training courses. The scores you receive will not affect your class grade or your ability to progress to Music Theory II or Ear Training II. However, retaking these exams is mandatory, and students who do not retake the exams will be administratively dropped from Music Theory II and Ear Training II. As long as you retake the exams, the scores you receive will not affect you academically. The exams must be completed no later than the final day of the semester.
