

FOR TRANSFER STUDENTS

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

Communication is a discipline concerned with the study of how people use messages to generate meaning within and across various contexts, cultures, channels, and media. The discipline promotes the effective and ethical practice of human communication. Courses in communication examine the nature, use, and role of messages among individuals and within small groups, organizations, and society in whatever form they assume—oral, written, visual, mediated, and technological. While the roots of the study of communication trace back to the ancient arts of philosophy, rhetoric and aesthetics, its contemporary practices speak to the opportunities and dilemmas of participating in a globalized, mediated, and multicultural society.

Classes are organized into seven pathways: community service and public affairs, health communication, legal communication, media studies, strategic communication, political communication and government and critical toolbox courses. Across these pathways, students are encouraged to merge theoretical studies with practical applications, including service learning courses, travel study, internships, and social justice projects.

ACADEMIC ADVISING

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences (CLAS) supports students to graduation using a shared advising system. CLAS students have two academic advisors with whom they should meet regularly to discuss academic and degree progress: a CLAS Academic Advisor and a major advisor.

To determine the equivalencies of courses to be completed at non-CU Denver institutions, students can visit <https://transferology.com/school/ucdenver>. It is critical students connect with a CU Denver academic advisor to ensure planned courses will transfer and apply to CU Denver degree requirements. All non-CU Denver coursework must be completed with a C- or better to be eligible for transfer.
