

Colorado Clinical and Translational Sciences Institute (CCTSI)

UNIVERSITY OF COLORADO DENVER | ANSCHUTZ MEDICAL CAMPUS

Biography

Sarah has worked in the public health field for over 15 years, including conducting research and evaluation in community development; leading processes for coalition development; developing and implementing education assessment and evaluation; and managing, directing, and carrying out research on school health, the built environment, and public health systems. Sarah was instrumental in the creation and direction of many programs within Trailhead including the Regional Health Connector Program, the Patient Centered Outcomes Research Institute Pipeline to Proposal Program, and has expertise in planning, evaluating, technical assistance and training programs centered on the strengths of communities. Sarah has a persistent passion for eliminating health inequities and building community collaborations to achieve positive public health outcomes. She has worked for Trailhead for the last five years in varying roles and is bilingual in English and Spanish.