Biography

Ricardo Gonzalez-Fisher was born in Canton, Ohio, and moved to Mexico with his family at the age of 3 years old. In Mexico, he became a Surgical Oncologist with significant experience in various roles, including senior leadership, team building and research on issues related to cancer incidence, treatment, and survivorship. As the Chief Medical Officer and Director of Medical Education, he was responsible for providing scientific direction and planning for a multispecialty hospital; he also was blessed with the opportunity to teach at the State University. In 2012, Dr. Gonzalez-Fisher moved to Colorado and obtained a Master's degree in Public Health. As a public health professional, Dr. Gonzalez-Fisher engaged in clinical research as well as outreach educational and engagement activities, particularly for minority and underserved populations in the state of Colorado. He is currently directing the efforts of the Mexican Consulate's Ventanilla de Salud Program, and Associate Faculty at Metropolitan State University of Denver. Other interests include cancer prevention and control, cancer survivorship and end of life experiences as well as history of surgery.
